Dear Parents,

This week, the Year 12 students engaged in the QCS Tests. The results from these tests contribute to the generation of the O.P. scores for those students who are O.P. eligible. Students use their O.P. scores to gain entrance to courses at various universities. Whilst these tests are important, and it is essential that students are prepared well for these tests, it is just as important, if not more so, that students’ engagement with their day-to-day work and periodic assessment is of consistent high quality. Next week, the Year 12 students will undertake their Term 3 exams. We wish them well for the next week and the remainder of their Year 12 time, which is all too short.

Every year, the Queensland Government publishes the results from their destination survey from the previous year. The destinations of the 2009 Padua Senior students are reproduced here.

Next week, the Year 11 Leadership Camps will begin. Over a two week period, students in their House groups, will engage in a number of leadership challenges as well as theory sessions. The camps will culminate in each student nominating his choices for the various Senior leadership positions in 2011. We wish them luck for this important process.

With only two weeks remaining in the term, all students would be finishing off assessment, or preparing for exams. I trust that all parents will guide the appropriate allocation of time to these important activities. Best wishes to all for a good end of the term.

Pace e bene

FROM OUR CHAPLAIN

Here at Padua we work in the very midst of it- we are surrounded by it five and a half days a week- it is GENERATION Y. That much studied and analysed group of today’s teenagers.

A study by researchers at Australian Catholic University a few years ago described GEN Y as narcissistic, lacking drive, commitment and discipline.

Listening to boys leads me to believe that many are over protected, over stimulated and over indulged.

Are they a generation that has fallen victim to potentially dangerous forms of inherited social adulation and isolation? Are they seduced by the mantra ‘you can be whatever you want to be’? Do they rarely hear the parental ‘no’ word, or have come to learn reasonable social boundaries and expectations? Is it for them, all about rights and little about accompanying responsibilities?

When it comes to the young and their relationship with the Church; what do they learn from their parents - those who make First Holy Communion no more than a “Clayton’s” rite of passage- photo ops, presents and parties - and children and their parents who after that hardly darken the door of the church till the next photo op of marriage in a church, accompanied by vacuous pop music; and a bridal party sustained by an esky full of Coronas!!

Let us be consoled though that while Gen Y has little time for the institutional Church, its youth do relate positively to the no-nonsense, down to earth and challenging figure of Jesus. Dogma may be lost to them, but not the real Jesus of the Gospels who connects with their experience of being human.

FROM THE VICE RECTOR - FORMATION

Vivid Rally
On 21 August Padua hosted the latest of a series of Youth Rallies sponsored by the Archdiocesan Youth and Children’s Ministry Unit. About two hundred participants dragged themselves away from the election night dramas to celebrate the beginning of the preparation for World Youth Day 2011 in Madrid. The night included the celebration of the Eucharist, testimonies from past WYD pilgrims and information about the planning for 2011. A Spanish theme permeated the night with Flamenco dancing and specially prepared Spanish food served during the event. It was great catching up with a number of former Paduans who were performing in the band or as part of the organizing committee.

Padua Reaches Out!
During the year there are a number of opportunities for Paduans to be part of the Outreach program. Year 12 students join the Rosies Street Van crew eight times a year, Year 11 students join me every fortnight in serving dinner at the Ozcare Men’s Hostel at South Brisbane. Recently a number of classes in the Primary School raised both awareness and money for projects associated with the deforestation of parts of South East Asia. All of these activities remind us of the mission Jesus gave us. St Francis, inspired by Jesus, inspires us through our outreach by the example he showed to the ‘minores’ of his time. Thank you Padua for constant generosity of heart and action!

40 Hour Famine
A number of Secondary students have generously signed up to be part of this year’s World Vision 40 Hour Famine event. I have heard tales of wonderful amounts raised by individual students who went without food, or the internet, or even furniture (!) for 40 hours. All sponsorship kits and monies should be returned to your son’s House Guardian by the end of this week please.

Pilgrims Prepare!
On Saturday 29 August the Italy Pilgrims together with the Friars from the Adele Street Friary, Kedron enjoyed a night of fine Italian food and culture. As part of the preparation for their forthcoming pilgrimage to Italy, departing on 28 September, the group met for dinner with the Friars for a bit of team bonding and fun. Ms Marina Mantini together with Fr John cooked a veritable feast of food commencing with antipasti platters followed by pasta dishes and dessert. Ms Mantini organized some games of bingo (or ‘tombola’) using various everyday expressions as the clues. A great night was enjoyed by all!

FROM THE SPORTSMASTER

15yrs Rugby League

Unfortunately the Brisbane Broncos have decided to put a hold on this competition in 2010. Below is the official response from the Broncos regarding the 15yrs Alfred E Chave Competition. The schools involved have tried to establish another competition but have not been able to secure support.

"The Broncos in conjunction with Alfred E Chave will not be coordinating this competition in 2010. It was decided that we will review this competition in 2010 with the view to making it bigger and better in 2011. Alfred E Chave through Tony Joseph, remain committed to this competition in the future and I will be in contact early in 2011 to gather interest from current schools and new schools. It is hoped that in the future we can make this competition more attractive to the children and the schools and when this is finalised, I will be in touch."

Once again, I thank you and your school for your ongoing support of these competitions. If you have any questions, please don’t hesitate to ask.

FROM OUR STUDENT COUNSELLOR

Research Project: Coping with Emotional Problems

Researchers at Monash University and the University of Queensland will be conducting a research project in Padua College investigating the emotional health and well-being of Australian adolescents, using data collected over 3 years. It is hoped that the results of this study will improve prevention and early intervention programs designed to enhance the quality of life of all Australian adolescents.

This study will be conducted in secondary schools across Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania, South Australia, Western Australia and the Northern Territory. Students in grades 8-10 who have parent consent and who are willing to take part in the study will be asked to participate. Participation in this project will involve your child completing a questionnaire, during school hours, with other participating children from Padua. In one year and two years time, all adolescents for whom data was collected in the first year of the study will be invited to complete the questionnaire a second and third time.

Shortly, an information sheet and consent form will be sent home to parents of children within the specified grade levels. This information sheet will explain the project in more detail and will tell you what you need to do next. If you have any questions regarding this project, please contact Student Counsellor Sally Dwyer on 3857 9972.

Book Week 2010

The secondary library celebrated Book Week this year in a number of small but significant ways. To begin the celebrations, the Year 9 Readers Cup Team was invited to Customs House on Friday the 20th of August to attend the announcement of the CBCA Book of the Year Awards which were presented by Her Excellency, the Governor-General of Australia, Ms Quentin Bryce. The boys’ brief was simple – to find as many authors as possible to sign the library’s copies of their books. In addition, one of the team members, David Wall, was asked to thank Ms Bryce at the conclusion, and went on stage and shook her hand. Then there were media shots taken with the team and the Governor. It was all a bit overwhelming! And we found some authors to sign our books – John Danalis signed ‘Schumann the Shoeman’, Peter Macinnis signed ‘Australian Backyard Explorer’, Penny Tangey signed ‘Loving Richard Feynman’ and Tanya Patrick signed ‘Polar Eyes: A Journey to Antarctica’.

During the week, many Years 8 to 10 English classes were invited into the library to hear about the award-winning books. Boys who had borrowed the largest number of books during the year were given confection and bookmarks. Stickers bearing the Book Week theme, across the Story Bridge were handed out to all and sundry and boys were once again, encouraged to find a book which with they could engage.

On Wednesday, award winning author, Barry Jonsberg spent the day with us. He spoke to all the Year 9 boys about his first novel, The Whole Business with Kiffo and the Pitbull, and all the Year 10s about his follow-up book, It’s Not all about You, Calma. In the afternoon, about 30 Year 8 and 9 boys were able to participate in a writing workshop. This was a very successful day.

I am pleased with the number of boys who are in the library searching for books to read. The next couple of months will see the publication of many anticipated titles including the final instalment in The Hunger Games Trilogy, Mockingjay, the latest Cherub, Shadow Wave, and the next Ranger’s Apprentice, The Emperor of Nihon-Ja.

Being a great dad

Many dads tell me that they want a better relationship with their children, particularly their sons, than they had with their own fathers.

There’s no doubt that fathering has changed in recent years. Gone is the distant dad of the 1960’s and 70’s who saw his main job as keeping a roof over his family’s head and bread on the table. An occasional game in the backyard anddispatching the heavy discipline that mums couldn’t deal with was the extent of his involvement with his kids.

Many dads tell me that they want a relationship with their children, particularly their sons, than they had with their own fathers. Sadly, many men still don’t enjoy a close relationship with their fathers, but they are determined to change things with their own kids.

Here are seven ideas to help you form close relationships with your kids, and maximise your effectiveness as a parent and a partner.

1. Find something in common with your kids
Dads need something in common with their children. They relate better when they have a shared interest or shared passion with their kids. Many men relate to their kids while being active, and teach many important lessons through games and play. But if sport is not your bag, find something else that you and your kids have in common. A shared interest is a great help for fathers who live apart from their kids who are looking to maximise the time they have with them.

2. Spend time with your sons
A dad can do little wrong in the eyes of a young boy. From around the age of five years, a boy thinks his dad is like Superman. Ironically, he may give his mum a hard time at this stage. Dads need to spend as much time with their kids in these impressionable years as possible. They just need to be careful not to push their sons too hard or turn every game into a lesson. That’s when boys turn off their dads.

3. Don’t whimp out on discipline
Dads are traditionally the kings of play, but they can go missing when it comes to discipline. They get their kids excited in a game before going to bed, then expect their partner to settle them down. It helps if both parents can take their share of managing children’s behaviour.

4. Treat your daughters well
There are strong links between a close fathering and the healthy development of girls. Dads teach their daughters important lessons about how they should be treated by males. So dads need to treat their daughters respectfully so they learn to expect this treatment in their future relationships with men.

5. Say goodbye Superman, hello Clark Kent
Adolescent boys are programmed to challenge their fathers. It’s part of the growing up process. Australian author John Marsden refers to this phenomenon as the ‘old man, young man syndrome’. He’s right. It’s a type of rite of passage that plays out in many Australian homes.

6. Support your partner
Fathers may play an integral part in the lives of their children but they also have a profound effect on the quality of mothering that children receive. There is little doubt that a woman who can share the emotional and financial burdens of child-rearing with a supportive partner is more likely to be a loving, affirming mother. Supportive fathering is one of the keys to better mothering.

7. Change as your child changes
KDs grow up at the speed of light and change before you know it. They’re kids one day and teenagers the next. They can catch many fathers unaware. The most effective dads are those who change their parenting to suit the needs of their kids at each stage of development, rather than stubbornly hold to outdated ideas of how they think their kids should be.

Those dads who are a little apprehensive or lack sufficient confidence should become involved in as many aspects of parenting as they can.

The best way to learn about parenting is by doing it.

Children are a terrific resource for fathers - men can learn about children from children themselves. By being alert, watchful and learning to listen to their children, fathers can learn all they need to know about parenting.

IGNITE CONFERENCE!!! Every now and then, we experience something like stepping into a portal... we are transported into a new world and everything is different! Ignite 2010 is one of those times, a chance to step into your faith and discover just how much more there really is...

You’ve heard about this for months now, and it’s time to make your decision!!! Forms are at the front of the Church, or on the website www.igniteconference.com.au.

To go with the Kedron group, follow these steps!!

- Tell Jess!
- Fill out the attached Group Registration form and return to the parish!
- Write “Jess Woodward” under group leader and “Kedron Parish” under group. Tick “Group leader making single payment for group” and the parish will invoice you once we know how much this will be, but be assured this will be less than half the registration cost.
- There is substantial money from the Deanery to go towards registration, but for limited numbers, so get in quick!

A group will be going from Kedron, travelling to and from Redcliffe together each day from the parish. If you want to be part of this group, you must get your form in to Jess by August 22. If you can't come the whole time, you can choose to attend for a day or two, or the full conference.
