THINGS FRANCISCAN

At the recent Provincial Chapter of the Franciscans of the Holy Spirit Province, which includes Australia, Fr Paul Smith ofm (OB) was re-elected as Provincial Minister for the next three years.

At the same Chapter, Fr Ken Cafe ofm was elected to the Definitory (Provincial Council). Fr Ken played a prominent teaching role at Padua in the establishment of the Career Training Course (C.T.C) in the 1970s. Fr Andy Granc ofm, who has conducted retreats for the boys and inservice for teachers, was also elected at the same Provincial Chapter.

Chris Fitzpatrick, who has been involved at Padua both as student and teacher began his Noviciate in the Franciscan Order in August. The Noviciate for Australian entrants to the friars is currently in the United States.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW

Damian Pilat - after graduating from QUT with a Bachelor of Business and HR degree, has been working in Mumbai, and is now in Shanghai with Robert Walters PLC as Head of Supply Chain, Procurement, Engineering and Operations. He represented Australia in 2004 in the FIFA Futsal World Cup in Taiwan.

Luke Cross now lives in Sydney and works with Westpac. He had spent three years in France playing Rugby League. He is married and has one son, Remy.

Nathan Sandwell has spent the last five years in Dubai, and is now in Hong Kong as a Senior Associate with Herbert Smith. He was married last August. His brother Nicholas was married last year at Little Flower Church, Kedron to Christina McCormick.

New Buildings Update

Peter Franklin
Facilities Manager

Work commenced in January 13 on one of the largest building projects undertaken at Padua College in preparation for the inclusion of Year 7 students into secondary schooling. The new buildings will be situated on land in Jardine St and will include an alternate major entry into the College. The project involves the construction of two multi-story buildings to house our science, art, music and drama classrooms as well as a new uniform shop and some staff facilities. Once the buildings have been completed, the current science, art and drama rooms will be refurbished and converted to other uses. Of particular note is the conversion of the existing Science Labs 3 and 4 into a new Pastoral Care Centre. The new buildings are being constructed by WATPAC Special Services and are due for completion by late January 14. Whilst the new buildings are fully air conditioned, environmental aspects have been addressed in the design. The buildings include rain water catchment and storage for 90,000 litres of water which will be used for toilets and gardens, a 54 KW solar power station, the inclusion of LED lighting in some areas and a bio-treatment basin for storm water runoff.

WEDDINGS

If you have any information about forthcoming nuptials of old boys, please let us know.

RECENT WEDDINGS:

Fr John recently officiated at the following weddings:-

Pasquale Avolio to Nikita Hobbs at Little Flower Church, Kedron

Nicholas Serra to Leanne Howard at St. Brigid's Church, Red Hill

Albertus De Graff to Emma Spring at Little Flower Church, Kedron

Old Boy Presents Academic Excellence Awards

*Academic Assembly August 2013
Bulletin article by Bob Out*

The students were witness to a modern part of the Franciscan Intellectual Tradition when they listened to Mr Michael Stevens, an Old Boy of the College. Michael was our guest at the Academic Assembly, at which he delivered an address about his current academic life, as well as his fond memories at Padua. Below is a summary of Michael's professional experiences to date. It is gratifying to know that Padua has played a part in what Michael has achieved.

'Michael is currently completing a PhD in the development and implementation of automatic control software for implantable rotary biventricular assist devices (heart pumps). The objective is to make these pumps 'smarter' by improving their sensitivity to the needs of the human body.'

He has a Bachelor of Engineering (Medical):

First Class Honours and is currently a Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) Candidate .

Important Information Old Boys' Database

In 2010 changes were made to the Old Boys' electronic database at the College. There were a number of issues with this and, in talking with some Old Boys, it seems that some names and details have been lost. It is important that the database is as accurate and comprehensive as possible to keep all Old Boys informed. If you are talking to any fellow Old Boy, please ask them if they are still receiving emails notifying them of events and the Newsletters. If they received emails in years gone by and no longer receive emails, please encourage them to get in touch with the College by email, oldboys@padua.qld.edu.au or by telephone 07 3857 9999.

There was no slowing down at Padua College at the end of Term 2. It was a week of great celebration for the College. The College was honoured to be the recipient of the Queensland Community Foundation Award and we celebrated the Feast of St Anthony. The College was pleased to welcome six of our 1963 Seniors. As well as this, Mr Wayne Swan, Federal Member for Lilley, former Deputy Prime Minister and Treasurer held a press conference in the Padua Library to discuss education policy.

To mark the end of Philanthropy Week (17-21 June 2013), Queensland's corporate and non-profit sectors gathered at the Brisbane Hilton. Philanthropy Week 2013 was organised by the Queensland Community Foundation (QCF) to raise awareness of philanthropy by honouring those who make an outstanding contribution to the community. Padua College was nominated for one of the awards and both Michael O'Brien, Vice Rector Formation, and Barry Keegan, College Business Manager, represented the College at this function.

Mr Michael O'Brien receiving the Corporate Philanthropist of the Year Award

Padua College should be very proud of its philanthropic pursuits. The College was the first school in Australia to commit to the Work and Welcome project which assists refugees and migrants. We are also a major contributor to the Little Kings Movement and we have a strong connection to the St Vincent de Paul charity. Our success is due to the many great efforts of staff, the students and the wider Padua Community. Because of this, the College was awarded the CORPORATE PHILANTHROPIST (COMMUNITY) OF THE YEAR. This is a significant achievement and a testament to our dedication to St Francis' Peace Prayer it is in giving that we receive.

From the Bulletin

I wasn't sure what to expect from the class of '98 Padua 15 year reunion. The prospect of catching up with old friends – many of whom I hadn't spoken to in fifteen years, was exciting. Would we recognise one another? What would the inevitable question be “what are you doing with yourself?” reveal? Some will no doubt be married? Some will have kids - possibly back at this school? Some will own their own business? Endless possibilities.

We gathered at the College and probably not surprisingly, recognised one another immediately. There were hugs, handshakes and laughter. “Good to see you” echoed throughout the lawns in front of the school. All the above questions tumbled over each other as we tried to catch up on the years. Ben Lowrie then took us on a tour of the grounds. It provided a chance to reminisce. Memories came flooding back: that's where we used to play handball - now it's a fully equipped sports hall, over there's where we first heard of Pythagoras's Theorem – now a revamped fully equipped classroom. We were all impressed to see the developments and to witness the expansion of Padua into the 21st century with such style and characteristic determination.

We all spoke of how grateful we were to be part of such a well-rounded school with its balanced focus on Academia, Sport, Music, extra-curricular activity and the spiritual development of its pupils.

From the school we headed to the Hamilton Hotel. The atmosphere was energised. The synergies were evident. We had steak and beers and caught up on life over the past fifteen years. Lots had changed but in other ways, the essentials were still in place. It was interesting to see how each of us had grown physically and emotionally over the years – how we'd navigated our dreams and weathered the inevitable storms. In true Padua spirit, the camaraderie was intact. Business cards and mobile contacts were exchanged.

I had a wonderful time and look forward to the 20 year reunion. A big thanks goes to Daniel Gordon for organising the event.

Peter Stark

(OB 1964)

retires from Board of Padua College Ltd

Peter Stark recently resigned from Padua's Board of Directors. In one sense, this brings to an end Peter's long association with the College. He was enrolled in the second year of Padua's foundation in 1957, and graduated as a Senior in 1964. During his time at Padua he was the worthy recipient of a number of awards, including the Provincial-Minister's Cup for Leadership, and Sportsman of the Year.

Six years after graduation, he returned as a teacher in the Primary campus, and was there for eleven years. During this time Peter was a very active and enthusiastic member of the Old Boys Association. After Padua, Peter taught at three local Catholic Primary schools, St Finbar's, St Anthony's and was Principal at St Dymphna's.

Peter's three sons were all enrolled at Padua, and the first of his grand sons began in Year 5 at Padua this year.

FOTH Business Directory

About our Community Business Directory Initiative

Connecting the Community

Now in its fifth year, the combined schools FOTH Community Business Directory provides a unique opportunity for businesses to promote themselves directly to the Franciscan Community. The Franciscan Community consists of Padua College, St Anthony's Primary School and Mt Alvernia College, and their surrounding community and businesses.

We encourage parents, friends, supporters and of course Old Boys of Padua College to use this directory whenever they are in need of a builder, electrician, hairdresser, painter or any services required. In supporting each other in this way, the FOTH Community Business Directory will grow, and strengthen our community in a very real and practical way.

Advertising in the FOTH Community Business Directory shows your support for Padua College and the local Kedron Franciscan community. It also provides great exposure for your business to the Community in a targeted marketing approach that ensures the audience is receptive to your values.

Further to the above, for 2014 we are expanding the marketing and advertising opportunities for the Directory. We are incorporating a Facebook page, ramping up our e-Newsletters, adding e-Newsletter sign up features to various applications, developing LinkedIn integration to the online Directory and expanding our network reach to a wider community. On top of this, we will be holding a Launch Event at St Anthony's Primary School on Thursday 31 October; we would love for all the Padua College Old Boys to be involved in this fantastic networking event.

PC Graphic Art will be managing all FOTH Directory bookings and payments on behalf of Padua College (and the FOTH Schools). To make a booking or for more information, please contact PC Graphic Art at forthdirectory@pcgraphicart.com.au, call 07 3358 4654 or visit the FOTH Directory website <http://forthdirectory.com.au>.

Grade 12 Camp-Retreat

Early in the third term most of the twelfth grade students took part in a camp-retreat at Coolum. A pleasing aspect of the retreat was the well-organised nature under which it was run, from the talks, films and discussions down to the football games. Special thanks must go to Fr. Maurice Carmody, o.f.m. a Sydney specialist in retreat work, for conducting a very interesting and rewarding retreat. Another mention of thanks must also be issued to Fr. Barry Kirby for spending many hours in organizing and ensuring the success of the camp.

Grade 11 Camp-Retreat

A two day retreat for Grade 11 was held at "Luther Heights" Youth Camp, Coolum, from 5th-7th September. The retreat was given by Fr. Maurice Carmody, o.f.m., and assisted by Frs. Barry Kirby and Roderick Payne. The camp achieved two levels of success, that of the spiritual and that of the social. It was evident that the social level enjoyed slightly more success, but this did not detract from the value of the retreat. All enjoyed themselves and everyone gained something from the spiritual or social side. I would like to thank Fr. Maurice and his assistants for their time, effort and tolerance during the retreat.

Mission Mass & Blessing of the Boat

Each morning at about 8.40 the boys of Padua move from the assembly in ranked groups to their classrooms. When school begins, so I am told, a boy in each room combs the class with the cry: "Any mission money?" Monotony makes it almost mundane. But when some weary missionary in a remote village receives an acceptable cheque his day is made, and some project dear to his heart becomes possible for the benefit of the poor people whom he serves.

This is the reason why on Tuesday morning 16th October, the school boys left the assembly in another direction, because on that day the Primary and Secondary schools met on the lawn in front of the Friary for a special Mass and the blessing of a boat. There on a pathway was a 12ft aluminium clipper, the "PADUA", waiting to be blessed before the students sent it up to the Holy Spirit College, Port Moresby, where young men come from all over Papua-New Guinea and the British Solomons to study for the priesthood. All balanced people know that recreation facilities are equally as important as libraries and laboratories in education, and in this boat lasting friendships will be welded among future priests from divergent areas of Papua-New Guinea and the British Solomons. The College here is also supplying a 5 h.p. out-board motor, to be purchased by Fr. Gerald Walsh, o.f.m. in Port Moresby.

With the boat came the opportunity of having a Mass in acknowledgement of the constant generosity of the boys and the very constant calling of the collectors. The theme was christian brotherhood, and the policy was to involve

St Anthony's Feast Day and 50 Year Old Boy Reunion

On the last day of Term 2 we celebrated our College Patron's Day with mass and assembly. Unfortunately, due to the inclement weather on the day the Padua Dash scheduled for after lunch had to be postponed. Our special guests on that day were 6 members of the first Graduating Class of 1963. This year these men celebrate 50 years since leaving school. The Old Boys had a wonderful day returning to their Alma Mater and were astonished at the progress and changes that have occurred since they were here as students. Their visit was a great connection for all of us to the traditions and history of our College.

Gas titans warn: now or never

Dennis Atkins
NATIONAL AFFAIRS EDITOR

OIL and gas industry titans have warned Australian governments they have less than two years to enact fundamental reform or lose out on a potential $150 billion second wave of liquid natural gas development over the coming decade.

Speaking as 3400 delegates from 30 countries gathered in Brisbane for the annual Australian Petroleum Production and Exploration Association Conference, Shell, Chevron and Origin chiefs said the risks were now greater than the opportunities to tap into this investment pipeline.

Backed by the industry association, all three warned costs in Australia were making this country more uncompetitive than rival sources of LNG, including North America and East Africa.

Australia currently has more than half of global LNG production hubs – worth about $200 billion or $1260 a second, 24 hours a day, seven days a week for five years – with three of the biggest projects on Curtis Island off Gladstone.

Industry says the biggest threats are regulatory and workplace laws, with one senior industry source saying the industrial scene in Australia was at "breaking point".

Shell Australia's outgoing chairman Ann Pickard said there was a window of opportunity for two years in Australia and she thought tax, regulatory and industrial issues were challenging.

She said overlapping environmental permits and approvals were a big cost factor. "I don't mind jumping high hurdles – I just don't want to jump over three," she said. Her replacement, Andrew Smith, said labour costs in Australia were becoming unaffordable compared with similar countries.

"We're not talking about $2 an hour, it's one developed country compared with another developed country," he said.

Chevron Australia managing director Roy Krzywosinski said labour costs in Australia were now so prohibitive expansion of an existing site in this country was more expensive than the development of a new site elsewhere in the world.

Describing this as "knee-buckling", Mr Krzywosinski said Australia needed a structural shift in the next 18 to 24 months to change its workplace culture and payments.

Origin CEO Grant King listed environmental approvals, Fair Work laws and access to imported labour as the issues hindering access to the next investment wave.

"Why should we be having a discussion about how difficult we can make (development) and not about making it easier?" Mr King said.

Luke Spiteri

OB 2006

ALBANY Creek lad Luke Spiteri and his university colleagues will present their ideas on jet fuel alternatives to aviation experts in France next month. The former Padua College student could change the way the famous Airbus planes are fuelled, which has made his family back here in Brisbane's north-west extremely proud. [Page 03]

WORLD-CLASS BID: FORMER PADUA COLLEGE STUDENT IN TEAM TO IMPRESS AIRBUS IN PARIS

A PADUA College old-boy from Albany Creek is part of a team preparing to fly to Paris in a bid to impress airline giant Airbus with an environmentally friendly substitute for jet-fuel.

Luke Spiteri said he never expected he and fellow Royal Melbourne University of Technology students had a chance in Airbus' international Fly Your Ideas competition and was stunned by the news his crew made one of five top submissions world-wide.

More than 6000 students from 82 countries entered the competition. The five finalist teams will be flown to France next month by Airbus to make their final presentations, with the victorious crew receiving $39,500 in prizemoney.

Mr Spiteri says the RMIT team - also featuring Mark Spiteri (no relation), Katherine Grigoriou, Martin Burston and James Herringer, all in their early 20s - is thrilled at their success and is now burning the midnight oil, polishing their final presentation.

"Originally it kind of blew my head a bit," he said. "It won't really be until I board the plane that it sinks in."

Mr Spiteri said he and his team used conventional knowledge and ideas in a different way to come up with their proposal for a combined liquefied biomethane and liquefied natural gas (LNG) substitute for jet fuel.

"Jet A fuel is four to five times the cost of LNG and our proposed blend of

THE aviation industry is experiencing pressure on two fronts - rising fuel costs and high emissions - Luke Spiteri says.

But his team also faces some difficulties, including ways to store cryogenic liquid methane fuel, which boils at about -160C, and sustainable biomethane with LNG could reduce carbon dioxide emissions by between 20 and 97 per cent depending on the blend ratio," he said.

increasing fuel storage capacity to compensate for the less dense Bio-LNG. They realised during tests with liquid nitrogen that a layer of foam insulation just a few centimetres thick was sufficient to reduce the boil-off rate to an acceptable level.

"Airbus can find no fault with the concept and technically we think it can be done."

Padua College teacher Mick O'Shea said Mr Spiteri

Spiteri says the impact of the design modifications needed on an aircraft's payload would be offset by Bio-LNG's higher efficiency. "The energy created by methane is higher than traditional fuel and so we can expect greater fuel efficiency," he said.

was a standout student from a young age and was proud of his most recent success. John Spiteri, Luke's father, said he was also very proud of his high-achieving son.
