Finding your Tribe – The Challenge of the Teenage Years

When I was a boy of fourteen, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be twenty-one, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years.

(Mark Twain)

We all know that the early teenage years can be a period of some challenge – for both parents and boys. The adolescent body and brain are fast developing but not always at the same rate. Peer pressure or the need to fit in, drive some actions that at times run counter to the values of parents and the College. As adults, we can probably all remember the time our parents sat us down and spoke to us about the importance of picking our friends wisely and the need to be strong enough to make our own choices. However, if we were asked today to name the people who have been the biggest influences on our lives, we probably wouldn't include too many of our friends from the time when we were in our early teens.

This aside, experience tells us of the need to be deliberate around clear boundaries and the benefits of providing appropriate role modeling during the formative teenage years.

This also means that at times, we must address inappropriate behaviour with measured and considered consequences.

As a College, we value the important partnership we share with our parents around the formation of good young men. The prelude to our College Mission Statement says that the College supports our boys to become the best that they can be. Together with our Paduan families, we raise young men with a quiet strength, which enables them to achieve and contribute positively to their community and to the world beyond the College. I have every confidence that our Year 12 class of 2017 will be great examples of this when they graduate – even if some of them had 'moments' along the way.

To support this journey from adolescent boy to a young man with a quiet strength, the College has organized Rebecca Sparrow to come to the College to speak to the Year 9 boys about 'finding their tribe'. The presentation will be on Thursday November 9. Rebecca's presentation will cover the following:

- What does a good friendship look and feel like?
- Are your friends propelling you forward or holding you back? And do they cheer when you win?

In her presentation Rebecca talks about the importance of finding the right friendship group– those people in life who are authentic friends. She also discusses the importance of teaching the boys to be resilient, learning to listen to their instincts, the power of a high school legacy and the value in giving back to the community.

We will continue to explore other targeted interventions to support our boys make good choices in the teenage years. I encourage the parents of Year 9 boys to discuss the take home messages from Rebecca Sparrow's presentation.

End of Year Celebrations

Over the last couple of weeks, I have been fortunate to attend a number of end of year celebrations. These have included, the FCIP Senior and Intermediate Concerts, the Art Show, the Theatre Sports Final, Year 12 Chemistry Wine Tasting and the Film and Television Awards. Each night has been recognition of the dedication of our teaching staff and a celebration of our boys' engagement in learning and College life. On display each evening was the important relationship between teacher and student. This building of rapport between students and their teacher is not only important in the learning process but also in the building of a healthy community. These recent events highlighted both these points. Coincidentally, last Friday was World Teachers' Day and this day allowed us to thank the staff for their work at this very busy time of the year.

All Souls' Day

This Thursday the College will hold a liturgy for All Souls' Day during our College Assembly. Held annually on November 2, All Souls' Day is a time for the Catholic community to remember deceased family members and friends. We know that over the course of this year there have been families in our community who have lost family members and friends. The liturgy will include a presentation of a plaque to the Sherwood family honouring the passing of Doug on December 30 last year. The 2017 Year 12 boys have raised funds for a gift to the College. These funds will be used to construct a wall of remembrance in the College grounds as a memorial to boys and staff who have passed away during their time at the College. Doug's plaque will be placed on this wall.

Year 12 Exams

This Friday our Year 12 Boys will have their last class at Padua before heading off on Exam Block. I wish them all the best with their final pieces of assessment and trust that they continue to work hard right up to the end. I look forward to joining them, along with their parents, fellow students and the staff for their graduation and end of year ceremonies in the coming weeks.

Exam Prayer

Lord, I know you are with me and love me.
Give me peace of mind as I prepare for this time of study.

Help me to focus on my books and notes.
Keep me from all distractions so that I will make the best use of this time that is available to me.

Give me insight that I might understand what I am studying, and help me to remember it when the time comes.

Above all, I thank you for the ability to be able to study and for the many gifts and talents you have given me.

Help me always to use them in such a way that they honour you and do justice to myself.

Amen

Peace and all good,

Mr Peter Elmore

The Chaplain

Last Tuesday, 31st October marked the quincentenary anniversary of that momentous day, when an Augustinian Canon nailed his ninety-five theses to the church door of Wittenberg Cathedral in German, and so began what is called the Reformation.

Depending on who you ask, Martin Luther is either the catalyst that led us to liberal modernity, or the founder of poisonous nationalism, who split the Christian church into a plethora 'do-it-yourself' sects.

To understand the world today, the world in which we live, and to fully know how the West came to be what it is today, we must acknowledge how all of us have been shaped by the Reformation. To ask whether what happened 500 years ago changed the world for better or worse, is to pose a legitimate question, but one that it seems most historians avoid.

Quite apart from the Reformation's near destruction of a religion that bound the European community together as a single family of Catholics, and that led in the end to redefining Europe through the effects of The Thirty Year War, there are the unintended consequences of the Reformation. The hyperpluralism of religious and secular beliefs, an absence of any substantial agreement about the common good, the triumph of capitalism and its attendant consumerism. All of this accompanied by the demise of a shared intellectual, social and moral life.

Where once medieval Christianity created an institutional world view laden with expectations of security for earthly societies and hopes for eternal salvation for all. Now we are left with fragments; intellectual disagreements, the notion that modern science is the source of all truth, a vision that religion's binding force has all but disappeared, the institutionalised assumption that truth is relative, and only secular universities can properly pursue knowledge.

The fragmentation of Christendom has been the most long lasting effect of the Reformation. This splintering and plurality of churches and worldviews created by it, has changed Western civilisation radically, and has led to a desacralization of our world.

Of course, in many ways, Martin Luther's world as we know it was very different from our own. But in some ways, not so different. In 1517, old certainties were failing, and politics was in turmoil. New discoveries transformed their understanding of the world, the printing press radically altered how people received information, and most critically, a crisis of faith marked their world. I think we suffer a similar malady today.

I believe that time and history will judge the pontificate of Pope Francis as initiating a new reformation, that can invigorate the Catholic Church, its practises, its rituals and its culture. This will take time- there is no going back to the rigid certainties of the past, and the cruel injunctions that flowed from power-filled authoritarianism. Pope Francis does not have a series of thesis to nail to the doors of St. Peter's, but already he has given us some pointers for a new age in the church. Read his Encyclicals, "The Joy of the Gospel", "Our care for our Common Home," and "The Light of Faith" and wonder if there is not a new reformation on the horizon!

Fr John Boyd-Boland ofm

Love

There are so many types of love, and this important word can easily be misused.

For the Christian it is fundamentally about selfless giving.

At the very end of his life, Jesus gathered his friends together; all this is described in the final pages of John's Gospel. The overriding message is that we are to love one another. This love is to be universal and practical, and usually involves sacrificing ourselves for others. It is the unconditional love parents have for their children, and in a marriage, it is putting the interests and desires of your married partner FIRST! Clearly, not always an easy task. Our loving others can be a real challenge, because for most of us there are people we don't like!

But Jesus says we must love our enemies, that we should do good to those that hate us, "turn the other cheek." This "going the extra mile" is what distinguishes the Christian from secular do-gooders. It is a difficult call, but it is the highly idealistic invitation that Jesus leaves us with.

"Whoever keeps my commandments is the one who loves me. If he loves me, he will be loved by my Father." John 14:21

Dear Padua Families

This Bulletin comes to you at the beginning of special month in the Church's Year – the Month of Holy Souls. It begins rather significantly with two important days of commemoration – Wednesday 1 November, All Saints Day and Thursday 2 November, All Souls' Day. On Wednesday, we celebrate the belief that we are all called to sainthood by the way we lead our lives. While most of us will never be canonised by the Pope for our good works, nevertheless, in the eyes of God we are all little 's' saints. Some of us, by virtue of what we do, gain official recognition by the Church and make it to big 'S' Sainthood! Being saintly is not a status check in but a way of life. Even some of the official saints had a tough time of it before their canonisations!

November also recognises people who have gone before us and now earn their eternal rest. This month we honour our loved ones, family and friends who have had an influence on our lives in some way or other. Staff, students and families are welcome to enter the names of family and friends in our Book of Remembrance. This book will be placed on the altar at all our masses over the coming weeks.

2017 Year 12 Graduation Events

Preparations are now well underway for the Graduation events. Your sons are required to attend three events as part of their Graduation from the College. These events are: Prize Night (Wednesday 15 November @7.00 pm); Vale Liturgy (Thursday 16 November @ 9.15 am) and Graduation Mass and Dinner (Friday 17 November @ 5.45 pm). Full college uniform is required for Prize Night and the Vale Liturgy, while Semi-Formal Dress (good trousers, long sleeve shirt, tie, dress shoes) are required for the Graduation Mass and Dinner. At the moment your sons have indicated their dinner table arrangements with Ms Bowman in the PC Centre. You may wish to check with him about this at home.

2018 Senior Merchandise

This week all Year 11 students and families will have received the letter outlining the payment process for the 2018 Senior Merchandise. Please note the deadline for payments is not negotiable as the order must be sent to Canterbury by November, if the boys wish to have their items for the beginning of next year.

Any enquiries can be forwarded to Mrs Farry by telephoning 3857 9982 or emailing her on lfarry@padua.qld.edu.au.

Year 6 Celebration Liturgy

This week the Year 6 boys and their families participated in a Celebration Liturgy to mark their passing from the Greccio to Assisi Campus. The liturgy took the form of a journey moving from the Greccio Dome to the Little Flower Church and concluding at the Piazza di Santa Croce. Thank you to the boys, families and staff who made this special moment possible this week.

2018 Franciscan Pilgrimage

The 2018 Franciscan Pilgrimage is now beginning to take shape with 21 students who have paid their deposits. For the first time five girls and a staff member from Mt Alvernia will be part of our pilgrimage group! Should any family still like to enquire about joining the Pilgrimage please don't hesitate in contacting myself on 3857 9986 or emailing me mobrien@padua.qld.edu.au.

Special Prayers and Intentions

There is a time for every season under God. We are all faced with times of grief, sickness, ill health and crisis. Prayer is a powerful thing. Please let us know of anyone you know who is ill, passed away or just needs to know that others are thinking of them. Names can be sent to mobrien@padua.qld.edu.au.

Mass is offered every Friday where your prayer intentions can be requested.

During the Month of November – the month of Holy Souls - a Book of Remembrance will be available at the College for anyone to include the names of loved ones you would like prayers or masses to be offered on their behalf.

Eternal rest grant unto all those we have loved and may Perpetual Light shine upon them. May they rest in peace. Amen.

Teaching and Learning

Term 4 Exam Blocks

With the end of year fast approaching, I ask that you consider your son's assessment schedule before planning for an early finish to the school year which will mean students miss assessment. The practice at Padua and given that Term 4 is short, is to have assessment in the last week of term. External Exam Blocks are scheduled for Years 10, 11 and 12, and Common Exam Scheduling will be put in place for Years 7, 8 and 9. Assessment Guides are currently available online for Term 4 for all Year Levels, however, these are subject to change and are a guide only. Exam Block Timetables for Years 10, 11 and 12 are currently on the College Website at

Mr Jason Pacey

Greccio and Assisi Libraries

Our Years 5-9 boys have been part of a series of explicit teaching lessons in 2017, entitled Research and Technology (with a good dose of Literature thrown in.) The looks on Year 9's faces when their teacher librarian reads them a picture book is priceless, but the subsequent discussions, connections and end results have been truly wonderful.

As the library continues to develop our Libguide pages to better support learning across all year levels, faculties and learning abilities, we have added a new research toolbox through the library budget. The Knowledge Compass, provides scaffolding to create questions and guide student research, and is available through the Library Libguides.

Year 8 students have been challenged to create a range of simple and complex questions to guide their research...without the need to actually find the answer...at this point in time. For boys who simply want to find the answer and move on, this has challenged their thinking about learning and about research.

Their original question this term was " Who was to blame for World War 1?" Through use of our databases, books and note-taking process, the boys have been encouraged to identify and list further questions, before seeking any answers.

Year 9's have been using their digital citizenship skills to identify fake news, and determine bias, fact vs opinion, and provide supporting evidence for their decision around a found or given article. All of these research, literacy and digital skills form part of the library process to build confident, global citizens, who have strong digital, media, visual, information and critical literacies

From 2018 students will have a single point of entry for their day to day resources for learning at Padua College. This will bring together curriculum and assessment information previously found in Blackboard along with daily notices from Padua Intranet and timetable information.

Over the coming week, students will transition to using My.Padua to access student notices and timetable changes as a way of beginning the transition process. Some classes may also begin to experience the delivery of classwork through this platform over the final weeks of term.

Class Act 50 Challenge

This week I have included a link to an article from Brett Lee regarding Deception Apps.

These are a category of apps (mostly appealing to children and young adults) that allow users to hide what they are doing on the internet.

As parents we strive to be vigilant in monitoring the online activity of our children. Education and awareness of what tricks and traps are out there enable us, as parents and educators, to facilitate discussions about the choices that our children make when they are online.

P&F

Dear Parents and Friends

It is that time of the year, and the last P and F meeting, including the AGM will be held on Tuesday, 7 November at 7pm.

At the AGM, all positions will be declared vacant and nominations called. If you are interested in nominating for a position, please complete the P&F Committee 2018 Nomination Form located on the college website via the link below:

<http://www.padua.qld.edu.au/community/associations/parent-s-and-friends>

Once completed, please feel submit your nominations to the P & F Secretary prior to the AGM via the P & F email address: pandf@padua.qld.edu.au or directly to me on pandfpresident@padua.qld.edu.au.

If you don't have time to submit it or forget to submit it before the meeting, please feel free to bring it along to the meeting on Tuesday night. Please remember that the P & F meetings are free for everyone to attend, so please join us and show your support for the P & F as well as the College.

If you are wondering what the P & F is about and are considering joining- or even if you are just curious – here is what the P & F is all about: The main reason I joined the P & F was because I wanted to be more involved in the College, and have a better understanding of what happens at the College, that my son isn't telling me about. I also wanted to join because I wanted to have a say – I wanted to be able to contribute to events, and I wanted to be part of the community of Padua College. The P & F has also given me an opportunity to meet a lot of people, parents and friends of the College, who I would never have met before. The meetings give me an opportunity to also raise issues, and to be heard and make a difference.

So, what are the meetings like?

The P & F meetings are held only once a month during school terms, and dates are finalised well in advance, which helps with planning. We try and keep the meetings to one hour – and seldom go over, unless we have specific guest speakers. We always have coffee, tea and biscuits at the meetings. The meetings are attended by Mr Elmore, so a perfect opportunity to catch up or just say good day.

If this has convinced you to give it a go – what do you do?

Nominate for a position on the committee – the positions are:

- President
- Vice-President
- Secretary
- Treasurer
- Committee Member

Attend a meeting – bring your friends along – the more the merrier. If you don't have time for the meetings, but still want to help the P & F – email me on pandfpresident@padua.qld.edu.au and I will keep your details for when we need volunteers. If you have ideas but don't want to be on the committee, and cannot attend the meetings, you are always welcome to send them to me on pandfpresident@padua.qld.edu.au.

I hope to see you all at our last meeting next week.

Kind regards

Mrs Pascale Weir
P&F President
